The object Oumuamua (Hawaiian name) that made an appearance a few years ago at first stunned astronomers because it appeared to be some tubular material floating in deep outer space. All this is explained visually in the B M Birla Science Centre's Digistar theatre. It did look like an object from an alien civilization or space ship. Then the Euphoria rapidly wore off and it was considered to be made of some icy and gaseous material. Stunningly back again some astronomers are coming round to the view that indeed it could be an object from an alien civilization. If that is the case this would be the most stunning discovery from the beginning of civilization.
